

Lead Safe Living

Preventing newborns from lead exposure

Your baby may be at risk for lead poisoning. Let us work with you to check your home for lead and reduce lead hazards, if needed, to protect your baby. High lead levels in a child's blood can cause:

- a short attention span
- failing in school
- problems learning to read
- acting up and fighting

Reducing the lead hazards in your home is good for your baby now and in later years.
